1. What is the new hire law?

The "Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act" (PRWORA) of 1996 was passed as part of the larger welfare reform legislation. This Act requires that all employers report information on people they hire or re-hire to a state directory shortly after they are hired. Although a Federal law, this legislation looks to the individual states to implement the law and to maintain the directories of new hires. Maryland Code, Title 8, Subtitle 6, Part IV, Section 8-626.1is the implementation of PRWORA within the State of Maryland.

2. Why is new hire reporting required?

New hire reporting was designed to speed up any child support withholding order processes by expediting collection of child support from parents who change jobs frequently. It also helps locate non-custodial parents to help in establishing paternity and child support orders. Thus, employers serve as key partners in ensuring financial stability for many children and families by helping them receive the financial support they deserve.

3. Who is required to report?

Employers doing business in the state of Maryland must report on the following employees:

- New Employees: Employers must report information on newly hired employees who reside or work in the State of Maryland. This includes employees of all ages, those who work less than a full day, those still in a probationary period, part-time and seasonal employees. This information must be reported even if the employee is employed for only one day before termination.
- Rehired or recalled employees: Employers must report information on employees who are rehired or recalled to work after being laid off, furloughed, separated, granted a leave without pay or are terminated from employment after 90 days and who reside or work in the State of Maryland. This includes teachers, substitutes, seasonal workers, etc.
- Temporary employees: Temporary agencies are responsible for reporting information on any employee hired to report for an assignment. This need be done only once, employees do not need to be re-reported each time they report to a new client, unless there is a break in service or gap in wages, in which case they need to be reported as a rehire.

While Maryland welcomes employers reporting on the hiring of Independent Contractors, it is not required.

Employers doing business in the state of Maryland must report information on anyone hired if the individual is considered an employee for purposes of paying federal income tax withholding. This includes employees of all ages, those who work less than a full day, those still in a probationary period, part-time, seasonal employees and employees who are rehired. This information must be reported even if the employee is employed for only a few hours before termination.

Employers are not required to report information on terminated employees.

4. What information must be reported?

7. What is the penalty if the report is late?

A penalty of $25 per employee per month may be assessed for each failure to report a new hire. Also, a penalty of $500 may be assessed for the failure to report new hire information if the failure is the result of conspiracy between the business or government entity and the employee.

8. How will the information be used?

Federal and State laws contain strict regulations on how new hire reporting information may be used. New hire reporting information is matched against any open child support orders to locate non-custodial parents and enforce these orders.

This information will also be fed into a national directory to provide more current information for locating out-of-state noncustodial parents.

New hire information may also be used by states to help detect and prevent fraudulent payments to recipients of unemployment insurance, worker's compensation and welfare benefits.

The use of this information helps maintain financial stability in Maryland families and helps to keep down the cost of welfare, unemployment and worker's compensation insurance.

9. What to do if you have never reported new hires.

Begin by reporting any new employees you've hired or rehired in the last 180 days. Then going forward be sure to report any new hires or rehires within 20 of the hire date.
